Just having a good time or a growing health issue?

Think Millennials and Gen-Z are the worst age group for risky drinking habits? Think again.

Baby Boomers and alcohol is proving to be a harmful combination and a problem on the rise. While young people are starting to drink less, alcohol consumption and associated health risks are increasing in people aged 50 years and over.

Read & share the latest Your Room article here: Baby boomers + alcohol: Just having a good time or a growing health issue? [2]

Links